Ten Year Program For Sugar Cane Growers To Be Discussed Nov. 19th

State agricultural leaders will take a deep look into Florida's booming sugarcane industry and will map out the industry's potential for production for the next decade at a meeting in Pahokee, Nov. 19.

The meeting is part of the Operation DARE (Developing Agricultural Resources Effectively) program initiated several months ago by University of Florida Provost for Agriculture E. T. York, Jr. The objective of DARE is to evaluate each agricultural commodity in Florida and formulate a plan of action to help develop each industry fully by 1975.

Joining Agricultural Experiment Stations marketing and sugarcane experts, and industry representatives will be Agricultural Extension Service Director Marshall O. Watkins and Assistant Director Joe N. Busby.

Leading off the program will be Dr. W. W. McPherson, Experiment Stations agricultural economist, who will examine trends in sugar consumption, prices, world production, beet and sugarcane production, and competitive relations. Ferdinand LeGrand, assistant agronomist with the Everglades Station, will review the present status of sugar production in the state.

Next on the agenda is a panel discussion on sugar production problems. Panel members will represent small and large producers, labor, surface water, and governmental regulations during the discussion.

L. P. Hebert, U. S. D. A. agronomist and Canal Point Station head; Dr. W. T. Forsee, Chemist-in-Charge at the Everglades Station; and Dr. Watkins will report on research and educational activities developed by their respective organizations.

John Yiedtke, sugarcane grower and member of board of directors of Sugarcane Growers' Cooperative of Florida, will wind up the program by leading a discussion centered around developing an action program aimed at realizing the full potential of the Florida sugar industry.

The meeting will start at 1:30 p. m. at the Pahokee Elks Club.

Ed Bandlow is still in the lead by more than a hundred votes over Andy Andrews for the county commission seat is Dist. 3. Several hundred absentee votes are still to be counted. The trend of those already counted was still in favor of Bandlow.

Here Is What Transpired At Monday's Meeting Of The Palm Beach County Commission

There appeared a possibility this week that location of a new million dollar terminal complex scheduled for International Airport might be changed.

An original planned location in the northeast corner of the airport, placed so as to utilize an airport ramp already in place, was turned down by the Federal Aviation Agency and a new site meeting FAA approval was picked. The location was changed, the FAA said, as a protection to airlines operating from the field.

County Airport director Frank Sakser told the commission this week that the operating airlines prefer the original location and full use of the existing apron. This decision, Sakser said, has been presented to Miami and Atlanta offices of the FAA, but the agency still refuses to approve the original location.

Of primary concern to the commission is that use of the present airport facilities would result in a considerable savings in construction of the new terminal.

The board voted to appeal its case to the Washington headquarters of the FAA.

Sakser also told the board that a preliminary planning meeting for the complex disclosed that the $1 million set aside for its construction might not be enough money and that the terminal, set for completion for the 1966 tourist season probably wouldn't be completed by January, 1966.

County Commissioners took steps this week to purchase property needed to expand facilities of two county operations.

The board voted to offer $45,000 for a plot of land west of the Datura Street Office Building needed for expansion of parking lot facilities. The 150x150 foot plot was appraised at $48,750.

The board also approved a swap of land with the City of Riviera Beach, which would give the county land adjacent to the Negro Children's Home. The board also voted to investigate the possible purchase of three privately owned parcels located in the same area.

In other actions Monday, the commission. Heard that equipment for installation of a railroad crossing on the Florida East Coast tracks at Hypoluxo is expected to be delivered by November 15.

Voted to provide an access to a new section of highway between Lake Harbor and Bare Beach—a new road built for some time but never opened for public use because of an access bottleneck.

Voted to proceed with plans for enlarging Phil Foster Park on the Riviera Beach causeway.

Instructed the county engineer to advise the City of West Palm Beach that county maintenance of Belvedere Road inside the city limits will stop at Australian Ave., since a new sub division in that area did not provide enough right of way for future widening of the street.

How to speak out for freedom today

Free men have never gone in much for silence. Even before the first thirteen States became United States, men were speaking for freedom loud and clear.

Today Americans speak out for freedom many ways—in Congress, in local government, in neighborhood activities. Some speak out for freedom in other languages, in other lands. And millions of Americans speak out for freedom every time they buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

Every Savings Bond you buy is an investment in freedom. While you're saving money for your own family's future, you're helping Uncle Sam tend to the business of keeping men free today.

Perhaps you don't speak out for freedom in the same tone of voice when you buy a Bond as Patrick Henry did in his famous speech. But you speak every bit as surely. And every bit as proudly.

Why not speak out for freedom now? Buy Bonds at the bank or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Keep freedom in your future with

Let Your Money Earn 4 1/2% Payable Semi-Annually

New $3\frac{3}{4}\%$ interest on U.S. Savings Bonds

The Treasury explains why the new ones you buy and the ones you own now are better than ever

Q: How does the new  $3\frac{3}{4}\%$  interest rate benefit me?

A: With Series E Bonds, the rate turns $18.75 into $25.00 fourteen months faster than the old rate. Your savings increase faster, because your Bonds mature in just 7 years, 9 months.

With Series H Bonds, the 10-year maturity period stays the same but more interest is paid you each six months. With both E and H Bonds the new rate works out to  $2\frac{1}{4}\%$  for the first year and a half; then a guaranteed  $4\%$  each year to maturity.

Q: When did the new rate become effective?

A: June 1, 1959.

Q: Does the new rate change the Bonds I bought before June 1, 1959?

A: All older E and H Bonds pay more now—an extra  $\frac{1}{4}\%$  from now on, when held to maturity. The increase takes effect in the first full interest period after June 1.

Q: Will the Bonds I own automatically earn their new rate?

A: Yes. You don't need to do a thing—just hold on to your Bonds.

Q: When my E Bonds mature, will they keep on earning interest?

A: Yes. An automatic 10-year extension privilege went into effect along with the new interest rate. This means your E Bonds will automatically keep earning interest after maturity.

Q: With the new interest rate, should I cash in my old Bonds and buy new ones?

A: No. The automatic  $1\frac{1}{4}\%$  increase makes it unnecessary—and in almost every case it is to your advantage to retain your present Bonds.

Q: How are series H Bonds different from series E Bonds?

A: The chief difference is this: You buy H Bonds at full face value and the interest is paid by Treasury check every six months for the life of the Bond. You buy E Bonds at 75% of face value and the interest accumulates to maturity. H Bonds provide income for living expenses, while E Bonds build a nest egg for the future. That's why many retired people hold H Bonds and families saving for, say, a child's education, buy E Bonds.

Q: In what denominations can I buy series E and series H Bonds?

A: E Bonds: $25 (cost $18.75), $50 (cost $37.50), $100 (cost $75.00), $200 (cost $150.00), $500 (cost $375.00), $1,000 (cost $750.00), $10,000 (cost $7,500.00).

H Bonds: $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000. They are priced at face value.

Q: How safe are U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Savings Bonds are an absolutely riskless way to save. The United States Government guarantees the cash value of your Bonds will not drop, that it can only grow.

Q: What if my Bonds should be lost, stolen or destroyed?

A: You can't lose. Every Bond purchased is recorded by the Treasury. If anything happens to your Bonds they are replaced—free.

Q: Where can I buy Bonds?

A: Buy E Bonds at any bank—it takes only a few minutes. Buy them automatically through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. This Plan means you can have any amount you name automatically deducted every payday. The Bonds you buy by installments are delivered to you automatically, too. Your bank will take your order for H Bonds.

Q: How do I help strengthen America's peace power when I buy U.S. Savings Bonds?

A: Peace costs money—money for military strength and for defense. And money saved by individuals helps keep our economy sound.

THE FARM FRONT
BY DOYLE CONNER
COMMISSIONER
FLORIDA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Florida growers and ranchers who are hopeful they can find new markets abroad will be interested in prospects for a new plan to stimulate U. S. exports.

Reported in the November issue of the Florida Journal of Commerce is a proposal for a 30 percent tax credit on export profits, said to be "in the mill" up in Washington.

Revealed recently by a Department of Commerce official, the proposal appears to be gaining widespread support among Commerce department officials, and among members of Congress, the Administration and industry in general. "If adopted by the new Congress," the Journal reports, "the tax credit plan would offer the strongest inducement yet for more American firms to enter export trade, and to encourage present exporters to expand their operations for beyond any current efforts."

Only recently has American business been prodded to look going for more business abroad. I recall comments from Washington that it looked like a lot of manufacturers have been dragging their feet, either satisfied with the business they are doing in the prosperous U. S. market, or unaware of the big opportunities for selling their products in many foreign countries.

In the past three years there has been a 27 per cent increase in U. S. exports and 4,000 new exporters have come into the field. Total number of U. S. export firms has climbed to 16,000.

Food manufacturers have to give close attention to every detail of their planning for the introduction of new products.

The product itself may be something consumers want. But a manufacturer may miss the boat by failing to package it in a manner to develop a high degree of consumer preference.

Instant sweetpotato flakes are an example. Similar new products, like instant white potatoes or instant chopped onions, have been successfully marketed in foil pouches contained in paper boxes. Manufacturers thought this method of packaging so important that they delayed introducing instant sweet potato flakes until a suitable four-to-six serving pouch could be developed.

However, when USDA's Economic Research Service conducted a pilot marketing test, housewives bought the new product more readily in glass jars. Glass jars outsold cans and the pouch-in-box during a six-week test in a Baltimore supermarket.

Researchers attributed this unexpected preference to the fact customers could actually see the unfamiliar new food and because glass jars can always be used to store other foods.

A bumper U. S. apple crop this year, estimated by USDA at nearly 146-million bushels, is providing our Southeastern food stores with abundant supplies of fresh apples.

Looking over official statistics for a number of years, I find that this year's crop is the largest on record since 1950-51. The previous high was 127.5 million bushels in the 1958-59 season.

However, apple production has been increasing throughout the world. Total world output last season (1963-64) is estimated at nearly 629 million bushels.

Output in the six member nations of the Common Market in Europe is nearly four times greater than the prewar figure. Among the six, Italy's production has soared from nearly 13 million period to more than 107 million bushels last season.

Total output for all of Europe last season was 364.3 million bushels compared with 246.2 million in 1950-51. In the Southern Hemisphere, where apples are grown in commercial volume (Argentina, Australia, Chile South Africa and New Zealand) total production climbed from 25 million bushels in 1950-51 to nearly 44 million in 1963-64.

Japan and Turkey have more than doubled their production in the past 14 years.

Mrs. Jessie Hughes returned to her home in Bryant Tuesday from Everglades Memorial Hospital.
